

A day in the life: Audit

Jialing Ren, Associate

My daily responsibilities involve working on allocated sections of the audit file for our clients and supporting the senior team members in completing the overall engagement. In audit, we operate as a collaborative team - seniors and associates contribute to different parts of the same file, with the shared goal of delivering high-quality work to our clients.

I've had the opportunity to work with various clients, including limited companies, LLPs, and charities. Each client type comes with different accounting requirements, so we receive dedicated training to help us understand and apply the appropriate standards.

As part of my training contract I'm working towards ICAS Chartered Accountant status, which is great. The knowledge I've gained from studying has been incredibly valuable in my day-to-day work. Subjects like Financial Reporting and Audit & Assurance have helped me understand not just the what but the why behind certain tasks.

Overall, I enjoy working in the audit department as it offers me a steep learning curve, strong professional development, and the opportunity to work with diverse clients.
